FIGHTS AT NIGHT

In the Vicinity of Port Arthur

BATTLE NOW IN PROGRESS

Japanese Advance Parties Repulsed

London, June 14th.—A great land and naval battle has been fought at Port Arthur, according to an article received from St. Petersburg to-day. The Japanese army, acting in conjunction with the navy, began the attack on June 10th and while it is not yet known just how decisive the battle was, the reports seem to indicate that it was the most important of the war thus far. The battle began with the attack of the Japanese to storm the outer lines of the defences at Port Arthur, and while the land fighting was at its height the war vessels in Port Arthur went out of the harbor to meet the Japanese vessels. It is reported a desperate naval battle followed outside and that four Japanese vessels and two Russians were sunk. There are a hundred rumors coming from all sources and it is difficult to tell just what has occurred. The land attack indicated that the Japanese army has drawn closer around Port Arthur than was realized and is preparing for the final battle. In the fighting of June 10th, which was of a sanguinary character, General Stoessel, the Russian commander at Port Arthur, was wounded in the leg with a rifle bullet and one leg has been amputated at the thigh.

Tokio, June 14th.—Commander Oda was one of those wounded by the explosion of the transport Taipoka Maru, while laying mines in Port Arthur harbor. Oda is the famous mine inventor.

St. Petersburg, June 15th.—Emperor Nicholas has received the following telegram from Lieut. Gen. Baron Stokelberg bearing to-day's date, 15th:—"Battle began at noon around the Russian position four and a half miles south of station of Wa Panhon, (Wa Pangow), the enemy making repeated attacks to dislodge our left flank. The attack was repelled and we retained our position. First regiment occupying left flank of our position sustained severe losses. It's commander, Col. Khavatsky and sub-Lieut. Dragoslav Madchinsky, were killed. Gen. Gergoren was wounded, a bullet shattering the right side of his lower jaw, but he remained on the field."

St. Petersburg, June 15th.—Emperor Nicholas has received the following despatch from Kuropatkin, dated June 12th: "This morning the advance of two Japanese divisions was discovered northward from Pulan Tien. The advancing forces at 2 p.m. were observed to extend from the village of Van Chou along the valley of Tassa, one division advancing by the Tassa valley. The enemy halted at 4.50 p.m. occupying villages at Tso Tsa Tung, Chang Tsa Tung and Tui Tsa Tung and the heights southward of Van Chou. I have not received detailed information of our losses to-day, but Lieut. Trechavskaya and several soldiers were wounded. The general staff has received the following despatch dated June 12th from Major Gen. Kirilov: "During the nights of June 11 and 12 the Japanese attacked our advance positions near the village of Usteten, south of Wan Pang Tien station and the Piliwogu Lan Tien line. The Japanese were repulsed with loss. The same night after a fight lasting till morning our detachments took possession of the pass and heights near the village of Lul Tsa Tung. Our losses in these nocturnal encounters were four soldiers killed and 18 wounded."

During the evening of June 13th Lieut. Long who was engaged in reconnaissance in the neighborhood of Entschefan, ten miles northeast of Aitang Mou was attacked by two companies of Japanese. He succeeded in forcing his way through after a hand to hand fight.

THE GRAND TRUNK INQUIRY

Consensus of This Morning's Evidence Before the Commission

The commissioner inquiring into the alleged employment of Americans on the Grand Trunk Pacific held the third session of the commission in the council chamber this morning.

Mr. Goring, recalled, said he was under the jurisdiction of R. W. Jones. Had known him about nine weeks. Jones had told him he was born and educated in the United States. Thought he had worked three or four years in Canada. Was a man about 38 or 40 years old. Jones did not say whether he was an American citizen or not. Witness had no conversation with him regarding the employment of aliens on the G.T.P. Had known Mr. Callaghan for about two years in British Columbia. Did not know whether he was an American or not.

Jas. Hislop sworn said he was in charge of party No. 14. Had been a civil engineer since 1885. Was born in Waterloo County, Ont., and educated at McGill and Cornell universities. Had never taken out papers as an American citizen. Had been employed chiefly in railway work in the Western States and British Columbia. Was located at Princeton, B. C., until he had entered the employment of the G.T.P. in September last. P. Houghton was transit man on the party in September. He left in December giving his address as Calgary. He did not ask to be taken back. His place was taken by Mr. Henderson who reported from Edmonton in December, 1903. Thought he came from Chilliwack. Thought he was born in Kansas. Mr. Silcox, leveler, came from Winnipeg last December. A. H. Legg had been discharged for cause on April 7th. Mr. Edwards had also been discharged for cause. Mr. Matthews, topographer, joined the party in April. He was sent out by Mr. McNeill. Did not personally employ any of them on the staff himself. Silcox had been promoted to the position of leveler when Mr. Legg left. His party was organized as an exploration party, hence no levelman was needed.

R. A. Henderson, sworn, said he was transit man on party No. 14. Was born in Kansas but his parents were British subjects and moved in his early childhood to British Columbia.

L. E. Silcox said he had been ap-

New Novel

"THE CROSSING"

588 pages, seven colored illustrations Cloth only $1.50.

The author puts into a picturesque story of the peaceful conquest of the great Louisiana territory the whole American spirit of a very critical period. It was during the years covered by this vigorous novel that the country proved the depth and value of the ideals created during the time of which "Richard Carvel" gave so convincing a picture.

The first chapters open with the day when the Carolinians were upon the frontier, and Andy Jackson was a red-haired boy, led by the schoolmaster for fighting. They carry the hero, young Davy, over the Cumberland Mountains, to share the adventures of the famous leader and Indian fighter, George Rogers Clark.

THE RIVER ROUTE

From the Battleford Herald:

D. L. Clinik left for Edmonton on Monday morning to bring down some raft of lumber.

J. G. Oliver leaves for Edmonton today to bring down material for two or three houses for which he has the contract.

Mr. McFrimmon has sent a grading outfit down the river from Edmonton to work near Battleford. His horses are coming by way of Saskatoon.

Scott Taylor left for Edmonton yesterday with a load of boatmen who came down the river with Mr. Cornwall, the contractor for boats for the C.N.R. Mr. Cornwall returned by rail and will run his boats during the summer high water.

Dr. Churchill, veterinary surgeon, is removing from Regina to Battleford. He went to Edmonton and sent his goods down by river and is travelling overland himself. He left Edmonton on the 25th of last month and will arrive some time in the near future.

Rev. C. C. McLaurin, Assistant Superintendent of Baptist Missions in the N. W. T., arrived on Saturday from Edmonton by way of Lloydminster and left for Monday for Saskatoon. One result of his trip will be the stationing of a missionary to the west of Battleford between the rivers. The latter will arrive almost immediately.

WARNING TO STALLION OWNERS

Contributed.

It has come to the notice of the Territorial Department of Agriculture that a number of stallion owners throughout the country are travelling animals without having had them enrolled in accordance with the provisions of the Horse Breeders' Ordinance. We desire to point out that it is compulsory for every person who travels a stallion for profit or gain to have him enrolled in the department and failure to obey the law in this respect is an offence for which a penalty of $25.00 may be inflicted. The Ordinance was passed for the protection both of the stallion owner and the farmer who has mares to breed, but in order that it may afford that protection it is necessary that it be strictly enforced, and with this end in view the North West Mounted Police force has been requested by the department to prosecute stallion owners who wilfully or through neglect violate the Ordinance. The public may assist the department very materially in its efforts to improve the standard of horse breeding in the Territories, by refusing to patronize stallions whose owners cannot produce when required the department's enrolment certificate, and stallion owners who have complied with the Ordinance—of which there are several hundred on the department's books—may cooperate by laying complaints against those who have not done so.

The advantages of a horse being enrolled under the Ordinance are as follows: To the stallion owner, that he is enabled to take and enforce liens for payments of service fees. That the Government guarantee given as to the breeding of his animal insures the confidence of his patrons. To the breeder, that he has the Government guarantee that the horse he puts his mare to is either pure breeding or he is not. The fee for enrolling a stallion is $2.00.

Tore Down the Signs

According to the following article in the Moose Jaw Times, the lumbermen do not appear to be taking kindly to the C. P. R. attitude on the lumber question:—

"The first act in the lumber 'problem' play in the Canadian West with the C. P. R. and the retail lumber dealers as the hero and villain, respectively, shows the dealers very much flustered over the action of the railway company in carrying out its scheme of overcoming exorbitant prices through the west. The company's agent wires from Minneapolis that the notice on prices tacked up at that town has been torn down and everywhere the retailers are indignant.

"Harry O'Connor, the C. P. R.'s lumber commissioner, has returned from a trip of nearly three weeks over the western lines, being engaged in seeing that the notices on the prices be properly displayed publicly at every station on the lines at which retailers handle lumber. Without any exception the retailers objected strenuously to the posting of such a notice, and at some points they were particularly indignant that the company should really carry out its plan, as Mr. Whyte had announced. The dealers at Medicine Hat were especially strong in their objections to the posters.

"The company will carry out its intention to the letter, however," said Mr. O'Connor. The object of the notices is to overcome the practice among some retailers of charging simply enormous prices. As Mr. Whyte stated when the matter was first made public, the C. P. R. will go to the end to accomplish its determination of getting the prices to the normal scale. When a settler would complain of the extravagant price on the lumber the retailer would simply tell him that it was the result of the rates charged by the railway and that the buyer should go to the railway for a betterment of the prices if that was what they desired. These notices now cover and handle the situation to a scientific standpoint."

"Herewith is given the explanations appearing on the notices. On them also appears a complete scale of prices on all sorts of lumber, and the railway company holds that no retailer is justified in charging an increase of more than 20 per cent over the prices as appearing on the placard. The announcements on the poster read as follows: 'The lumber manufacturers in British Columbia publish the following as the wholesale prices at which the different classes of lumber are sold to regularly established dealers f.o.b. cars at this station.' After the quotations on prices the following notice appears: 'Lumber dealers are in agreement with the manufacturers not to charge above what is considered a fair profit on the sale of their lumber. Purchasers are requested to report to the agent at the C.P.R. company here any complaints they may have as to excessive prices charged by dealers, also as to any difficulty that may be had in purchasing the full supply of lumber required by them. Any complaints will be promptly forwarded to the agent of the proper quarter.' The notices are signed by F. W. Peters, to whom all freight traffic is sent to the C. P. R."

PARLIAMENT

Special Correspondence.

The annual announcement by the Minister of Finance of the book-keeping of the country and the changes in taxation, known as the budget speech, was delivered on Tuesday afternoon by Hon. Mr. Fielding. As taxes touch everybody and are always of interest, there was a very good attendance of members. The financial statement was the most gratifying of all the many gratifying statements which the present Finance Minister has been able to make to the House and country. There is still a most satisfactory growth in trade, in finance and in revenue; and although vast expenditures have been made in public improvements of one kind and another, the gross debt of Canada has been reduced by over a million dollars during the present Liberal administration.

He estimated the total revenue of the year at seventy-one millions and the expenditure at fifty-four and a half millions, leaving a surplus of sixteen and a half millions, the largest on record. The trade of the country showed a continual increase as did the banking business and deposits in the chartered banks. Judged by every standard that could be applied, the condition of Canada was never as prosperous as at the present time.

Passing from the statements of finance, trade and revenue to the questions of taxation and tariff, he dealt first with the effects of the German sur-tax which had been applied last year. As a result of the imposition of this extra duty against German imports, the sugar trade of Canada with Germany had been transferred to the British West Indies and British Guiana, and German trade generally with Canada had decreased by nearly 40 per cent.

Speaking of the tariff, he said that the tariff had stood practically unchanged for seven years, and that while stability of tariff was very much in the interests of everyone, still it was reasonable that in the changes in conditions which have taken place for seven years there should be reasons for changes in the tariff. It was not the intention of the government to make any serious changes without full investigation. He thought it would be fair to say that in the future Canada's tariff policy would be on the present lines, a general tariff with the world, a special low tariff for friends and a special high tariff for those who maintained a special high tariff against us. Although not prepared to go into a general revision of the tariff, the government had felt it desirable to meet certain conditions found to be existing. They had adopted the British preference, in the hope that their action would be followed by corresponding action in Great Britain. Certainly a great deal had been done towards arousing public sentiment in Great Britain on the subject of colonial preference, but up to date nothing had been done, and in the meantime representations had been made that certain Canadian industries were suffering because of the excessive British preference. Without conceding anything in principle, it seemed thought advisable to meet the pressing representations of the woolen industry by a slight increase in the duty on certain classes of goods which felt the pressure of British competition under the present tariff most keenly. At the present time, fine cloths, tweeds and overcoatings bear 35 per cent. duty, under the preference this is reduced to 23 1-3 per cent. It was not intended to increase the general tariff of 35 per cent, but in the case of this particular class of goods a minimum duty of 30 per cent. would be fixed, making the difference on this special class of goods from Britain that between 23 1-3 per cent. and 30 per cent. This increase of duty could not apply to blankets and that class of goods. This is the only important increase of duty being made, but on twine and cordage, upon which the general tariff was 25 per cent. and the preference 16 2-3 per cent. the minimum has been raised to 20 per cent. This, however, does not include binder twine which still comes in free. Wooden poles and tubs, now 20 per cent., are increased to 25 per cent.

Reductions have been made as follows: On table ware the general duty is 30 per cent. and the preferential 20 per cent; this preferential has been reduced to 15 per cent. On window glass the general duty is 20 per cent. and the preferential 13 1-2 per cent., now further reduced to 7 1-2 per cent. Molasses from the West Indies, now paying 1 1-2 a gallon, is free. The duty on coal-oil which was 5c per gallon, has been reduced to 2 1-2c. The Finance Minister estimated that there will be a saving to the people on the oil imported of $400,000. A bounty of 1 1-2c per gallon will be paid on all crude oil produced in Canada. As the production of crude oil in Canada is decreasing yearly while the importation is increasing, the balance in favor of the country by reason of the change of tariff which he now estimates at $400,000 a year will necessarily increase.

A complaint made by carriage manufacturers against the importation of cheap buggies, is met by the placing of a minimum valuation of $40 on open buggies and $50 on covered buggies. A similar demand by the horse breeders of the West for a minimum valuation on horses imported from the States, is met by placing a value for duty purposes of $50 on stallions and mares, leaving geldings to come in as at present. This meets the complaint of the breeders against the deterioration of the stock of the country, while not interfering seriously with the supply of cheap working horses.

All products of petroleum, such as paraffine wax candles, high grade illuminating oils, etc., are reduced in duty. A number of articles not made in Canada are put on the free list, including whale oil, soap, hydrofluoric acid used by miners in smelting, ferment cutters for use in butter making, razors, presses not made in Canada, flax working machinery not made in Canada, alluvial gold mining machinery not made in Canada, and numerous other minor articles.

A very remarkable provision in connection with the tariff is that to prevent slaughtering of goods on the Canadian market. This is the bugaboo which advocates of high protective duties continually set up as an excuse for their policy. They point with terror to the time when with glutted factories and depressed markets in the United States it will be necessary for the United States manufacturers to get rid of their goods at any price by placing their surplus on the Canadian market, thereby shutting out Canadian home competition to the ultimate injury of the Canadian consumer. Mr. Fielding held that the alleged remedy of a general high tariff against United States imports would be more effective in bleeding the Canadian consumer than in restricting the importation of United States manufactures. He thought, however, it would be possible by making special provision to meet such a condition as it arose, without prejudicing the interests of the Canadian consumer while such conditions did not exist. The proposal of the government was to take knowledge of any alleged slaughtering of United States goods in Canada. The evidence of slaughtering would be the difference between the price at which such goods were supplied to the consumer in the United States and at which they were sold in Canada. If they were being sold at a less price in Canada than they were being sold in the United States, that was evidence of slaughter and the government would be entitled to collect upon such goods in addition to the ordinary duty, the difference between the United States and Canadian prices, whatever it may be. So far there does not seem to be any necessity for this provision, as there are no reports of any slaughter of United States goods in Canadian markets at the present time; but it is perhaps as well that such a provision should be made so that if the occasion does arise it cannot be used as a reason for a general increase in the tariff.

Dell, of Picton, Nova Scotia, took up the debate on the opposition side, and on the conclusion of his remarks and Sir Richard Cartwright moved the ad-

COURT OF REVISION

MET LAST EVENING

Unraveling the Assessment Troubles
for the year. Meeting adjourned

The council sat in the chamber last evening as Court of Revision to hear appeals against the municipal assessment for the current year.

At eight o'clock approached a large number of ratepayers congregated at the hall to appeal for various reasons but the curfew had rung before a quorum of the council could be rounded up by telephone and messenger. Mayor Stewart and Councillor Cushing were absent from town; those present at the board being Councillors Gerson, Ross, Fraser, May and Pearson. Councillor Peterson occupied the chair.

The first appeal was by L. Otte who had been assessed for a building not belonging to him but standing on his property. The appeal was allowed on the advice of town solicitor Beck, the name of the owner to be ascertained and the assessment to be made to him.

The Lessons of Experience

From the Statist, London:

The Japanese have appropriated European science, European methods, and European organization; and they have shown a skill and intelligence in the appropriation which is a marvel to all careful observers. It is to be doubted whether any European nation could have conducted its naval and military operations with as great skill and as great success as Japan has done in this war. It is to be hoped that our people are carefully following the operations of the Japanese and will take to heart the lessons that are being offered to them. In the Crimean war we blundered, if possible, worse than we blundered the other day in South Africa; but we refused to take to heart the lessons of our blunders, hugging ourselves in the hope that somehow or other we should muddle through. France was equally unprepared in 1870. Unfortunately for her, she had a more formidable army to deal with than we had, either in the Crimea or in South Africa, and she suffered accordingly. Now Russia is committing the blunders we have committed so often, and Russia is suffering in her turn. It is possible that the people of this country will refuse to take to heart all these lessons, and will go on in the bad old way until they come into conflict some day with an enemy who will not be dealt with so easily as the Russians in the Crimea or the Boers in the Transvaal. If we do not learn from the mistakes of the Russians, the splendid efficiency of the Japanese, we shall some day suffer disaster.

To the Public

Having sold my dental practice and good will to Drs. Lowther and Robertson, I wish to thank my numerous patients for their patronage in the past and ask them as a matter of personal interest to extend the same to my successors as I consider they have no equals in the West and few superiors anywhere. Dr. Lowther has been associated with me for some time both here and in the East. If a brilliant college course in one of America's greatest dental schools, if honesty, sobriety and skill count for anything, then I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Lowther and Robertson to my friends. Sincerely yours,

Borden Introduces His Annual Amendment and Laurier Replies

Bulletin Special Dispatch.
Ottawa, Ont., June 14th.—Borden spoke on the budget this afternoon to a half empty house and made no effective criticism of the Government's policy. He concluded by moving once more his amendment of previous years declaring for "adequate protection." Laurier replied most effectively. There could not be much fault to find with the Government's tariff policy when the Opposition leader had no charge to make in his annual amendment. The Government's policy was for low tariff adopted to Canadian interests as compared with the Opposition policy of adopting the United States tariff. The Government had not followed precedents in its tariff policy. The British preference, the German surtax and the anti-dumping provisions were original ideas, conceived in the interests of Canada. He compared most effectively the conditions of Canada under a low tariff with that of the United States and Germany under a high tariff. The life has now gone out of the debate and it will probably close to-morrow.

REASONS GIVEN

FOR DUNDONALD'S RETIREMENT

An Order in Council Passed Relating the Circumstances and Advising Dundonald's Relief

Bulletin Special Dispatch.
Ottawa, June 15.—At yesterday's cabinet meeting an order in council was passed relieving Lord Dundonald of the command of the militia. The order, after dealing at great length with the incidents leading up to the occasion of Lord Dundonald's utterance at the dinner in Montreal, concludes: "The subcommittee deeply regret that an officer of Lord Dundonald's high rank should have been so misguided as to fall into these grave errors and to pursue a course which, if ignored, would be fatal to the discipline and subordination to constituted authority which are essential in both civil and military government. For the reasons herein set forth the subcommittee advise that the Right Hon. the Earl of Dundonald be forthwith relieved of his position as general officer commanding the militia." The committee of the Privy Council concurred in the foregoing and submitted the same for approval.

Canadian Northern Report Gives Cause for General Rejoicing

Bulletin Special Dispatch.
Winnipeg, Man., June 15.—The latest crop report by the Canadian Northern gives excellent cause for general rejoicing. In various parts it was feared that too heavy rain might work evil, but from report it is learned that with the exception of in one or two places where crop is low and the soil shallow, there has been no damage resulting and crops never looked more promising at any stage of the country's history than it does at the present time. During the past week, the amount of precipitation varies in different places from one and two hours to sixty hours and in each instance subsequent temperature is reported as being warm and cooling.

A Needless Danger

Toronto Globe:

The death of a young girl near Calgary from a wound by a spent rifle bullet, is a lamentable reminder of the danger attending the use of modern weapons. The rifles that are now unfortunately in demand have a range and power of penetration that are seldom fully realized by men who freely handle them. With an elevation such as would be obtained by aiming at an object on a hill, these rifles may have a fatal effect at a distance of two or three miles. Some such thoughtless act may have been the cause of this lamentable death, and the man whose criminal carelessness was responsible may never know what he has done. The danger from the long range of modern weapons is increased by their penetrative power. A tree that would stop a bullet from the strongest of the large-bore rifles in use a few years ago, does not check the course of the small bullet encased in a nickel jacket. The softening of the point makes the bullet more easily checked or deflected, while more destructive in its results. The flat trajectory or level course of the bullet is another source of danger. Where the old heavy bullet would have described its short parabola and fallen to the ground, the modern missile continues its course over ranges of eight hundred and nine hundred yards with but a small deflection from the horizontal.

With all these dangers there are but poor compensating advantages. It is true that on the western plains there is occasionally a successful long shot that would have been impossible with rifles of shorter range. But in the hunting grounds of Ontario, there is scarcely any compensation for the new dangers. In the woods, big game is seldom or never shot at a range of more than one hundred yards, and for that distance the large bore and soft bullet are quite as effective as the modern weapons. In fact, the killing of stopting qualities of the large bullet makes it preferable, apart entirely from the question of danger. The powerful, small-bore rifle is a military weapon, and it should be reserved for the purpose to which it is eminently suited.

jourment for the government. It is expected that Mr. Borden will follow Sir Richard, Mr. Bell having merely been put up to give Mr. Borden time to prepare his facts and arguments in reply to Mr. Fielding.

Not the least satisfactory feature of the budget announcement is that, notwithstanding the strong pressure of the British Columbia lumber interests for increase of lumber duties, no change has been made in that important particular.

Ottawa, June 8th.

THE LIMIT

The article below is taken from the Canadian Lumberman and is reproduced to enable the lumber users in the West to understand the manner of the North West, and the prospects for lumber for a protective tariff.

The conditions under which the lumber industry of British Columbia is at present conducted are anything but satisfactory, and as a result the large saw mill of the British Columbia Mills, Timber and Trading Company at Hastings, a suburb of Vancouver, has been closed down until such time as there is an improvement in conditions governing the market. The bottom has, for the time being, fallen out of the foreign lumber market, and it is not possible to find a profitable market in the North West Territories and Manitoba largely owing to the fact that the mills near the border in the United States are using the Canadian North West as a slaughter field for their surplus stock so as to prevent overproduction in their own market. The British Columbia mills, situated near the coast are more seriously handicapped than are the mountain mills, which are more favorably located to supply the North West.

It is understood that the Pacific Coast Lumber Company and other large concerns have practically decided to close down at an early date unless some protection is afforded the industry by the Dominion Government, this being the natural result of existing conditions. The persons who have invested money in the business consider that the loss will be greater by operating the mills than by closing down.

"At the last monthly meeting of the Vancouver Board of Trade there was a very full discussion of the present condition of the lumber industry, and the result was that a resolution was passed to the effect that an equalization of the duty between Canada and the United States is immediately required insofar as the lumber tariffs are concerned.

"Mr. E. H. Heaps, of E. H. Heaps & Company, stated that up to the present time the lumbermen had been able to fight their own battles, but now they feel the need of the aid of every business man of the community. He did not wish to say that the lumber trade is bad or even sick; there are many seemingly bright prospects ahead, but the British Columbia lumbermen are threatened by American competition in the North West and in Manitoba. It has been asked why Canadian mills cannot compete with the American mills. The Canadians are defeated in many ways. The city council had raised the water rates because the mills employed Chinese; the insurance companies had raised their rates, and the Provincial Government Assessment had seriously affected the industry. The only manner of relief is to put a duty on lumber entering Canada. Mr. Heaps had reason to believe that between 5,000,000 and 10,000,000 feet of lumber per month was entering the North West and Manitoba from the American side. If that trade were prevented to the mills of Vancouver it would keep all the mills running night and day.

"The speaker said he had reason to believe that a duty on lumber could be secured if the matter were pushed. The British Columbia Lumber & Shingle Manufacturers' Association is doing all it can to bring about that end. The Americans have a larger market and cheaper supplies than Canadians, who only large market is in the North West and Manitoba. There are now many immigrants coming into which is used by the lumbermen as a large trade this year are good. The trade this year will be as large as last, but the great point is to hold it. The people of Manitoba cannot say that there is not sufficient lumber turned out in Canada to satisfy the demand, nor can they say that there is not enough competition in the country to keep prices down to a reasonable figure. A larger market is required by the British Columbia lumbermen, and if it cannot be secured the lumber industry will be checked."

Settlers Going South

Calgary Herald: J. Obed Smith, of Winnipeg, commissioner of immigration spent a few hours in the city last evening on his way to Winnipeg. Mr. Smith left Winnipeg a few days ago for a trip to the agencies in the Territories. His trip has been cut short by a telegram summoning him to the prairie capital.

Although Mr. Smith had only spent a few days among the agencies, and travelling through the various districts he has secured a good idea of the progress being made especially in Alberta. "Things are looking splendid all over the West," said Mr. Smith to a Herald representative. "The crops between here and Edmonton are just about as far advanced as in Manitoba."

"I found that more settlers are going into the country south of Calgary than to the north. At Clareholm the other day when I was driving around I counted 85 business places and houses. This number does not include any shacks either, but substantial buildings. Two years ago at Clareholm there were no buildings at all.

"The towns all along the north line are making splendid progress and I found the settlers generally well satisfied with their prospects."

"How do you immigration figures compare with last year?" was asked. "Well, our immigration from across the coast is away ahead of any former year, but the American immigration is not as large this year. This I think is largely accounted for by the fact that the Soo line was blocked by snow and was closed for a month early in the spring. You see the prospective American settlers start for the North West early in the spring to get out their land and then hurry home to do their seeding. This year the block on the Soo line prevented this arrangement and the result has been that their coming has been delayed. But they will come."

"How do you account for the great success of these American settlers?" "That question was well answered by a friend of mine the other day, when he stated that the Americans brought the tools with them. These tools not only consist of farm implements, but money, a thorough knowledge of farming and the ability to use it."

NEW GRAIN CLEANER.

Messrs. Dulmage and Hamel of Regina left for home this morning after spending several days in town introducing the National Grain Cleaner and Separator, a new machine on which Mr. Hamel has secured a patent.

The new machine only slightly resembles the ordinary fanning mill, is easy to run and has a "bagger" attachment. The principle on which it is made is that the seeds should be sifted from the grain instead of blown. For this purpose a series of sloping screens are provided with varying meshes, oscillated by eccentrics on the driving shaft. A representative of the Bulletin saw one of the machines in operation yesterday in the show room on Second street, when several severe tests were made successfully. The machine separated wheat, oats and peas with a mixture of weed seed in an entirely satisfactory manner. One of the advantages of the new machine is that the weed seeds are deposited in a box, thus enabling the farmer to burn them.

Western News

Free Press: An agreement has been made with the Dookhobors whereby a party of 1,000 of them will go to work on the C.N.R. main line extension next week. The Dookhobors have finished their spring work and are now willing to accept work from outside sources in order that they may add to the general funds of the clan. All possible men are being put to work on this line, which will be rushed through as fast as the rails can be laid. S. P. Robinson left Wednesday night for the end of the steel with 70 cars of outfit and he will commence laying steel at once. The bridges along the route are being put in rapidly, and grading is making good progress. A steel gang commenced work on the Hudson's Bay line of the C.N.R. yesterday, and will continue to the end of the dump.

Dawson, May 27th.—The last chapter in the history of the most bloody and atrocious series of murders in Yukon territory and Alaska closed here yesterday with the identification of the body of Alphonse Constantine, the fourth and last victim. Constantine's body lay for two years at the bottom of the Yukon river, and was brought to the surface by the churning and the upheavals of the great spring flow of the ice packs as they tore their way down the river after the break-up. The identification of Constantine's body is complete. His head was crushed by the murderers after he was shot, and his clothes are the same as described two years ago to the police by his friends. In his pocket was a letter bearing his name and a religious tract printed in French, his own language. The body was found several days ago on a bar between Ogilvie and Stewart, above Dawson. Constantine was one of the four victims of Victor Fournier and Edouard Labelle, two French Canadians, who were hanged here in January, 1903.

Blairmore Times: Corporal Jack Allen, who has been so long stationed here, has been accepted as a volunteer to go into the Hudson Bay country for three years. Jack left last Saturday for the East on his way to his far away post in the frozen north. All here wish him good luck in his new station and hope that we may see him back here in time upholding the majesty of the law.

Winnipeg Markets

From the Commercial:

Oats.—There is no great quantity of oats offering and the market is quiet. It is easy enough to buy for future shipment, but spot stocks are light and the market is on a hand-to-hand basis. We quote: No. 2 white in cars, lots on track worth 39 to 41c here and feed grades 37 to 38c. Farmers' loads, in the country, bring 33 to 35c.

Barley.—Residues are light, and the price about 40 1-2 to 42c, a decline of 1-2c to 1c per bushel.

Wheat.—No. 1 Northern, 86 3-4c; No. 2 northern, 83 3-4c; No. 3 northern, 80 3-4c; No. 4 wheat, 70 1-2c; feed, 60c; No. 2 feed, 51c, spot or June delivery. July delivery. No. 1 northern, 87 1-8c; No. 2 northern, 84 1-8c; No. 3 northern, 81 1-8c; and for October 1 northern, 78 7-8c; 2 northern, 75 7-8c, all in store Fort William and Port Arthur.

The Grand Trunk Pacific

The Winnipeg Commercial says editorially:

"The parliamentary struggle over the Grand Trunk Pacific is over, and it is now a fact that Canada is to have another transcontinental railway, stretching from ocean to ocean. Whatever dissatisfaction there may be in the east over this new Canadian national undertaking, there is no reason for anything but satisfaction west of Lake Superior over the prospect of the great project being carried speedily to completion. Whatever objections might be taken to some details of the arrangements, especially in the east, where every Dominion effort at increasing transcontinental means of traffic is debited as expenditure for the benefit of the Northwest, the whole project means great gain to the country west of the great chain of lakes. So far therefore, the Laurier administration made a good move for the Northwest, and so far are entitled to the confidence of the people living there."

The Conflict of Chiefs

The best critical opinion in London is that the Japanese have a division not far from Port Adams, holding a position where it can check any Russian southward advance, and that so protected and holding the Nanshan Hill position Gen. Oku is quite safe, as the fleet is able to keep him supplied. The Russian troops south of Kaiping are accordingly regarded as being engaged in a hopeless effort, and as being in danger of being severely handled, if not cut off. The reports that General Kuropatkin is sending supplies south cannot be confirmed. According to St. Petersburg advices he is completing arrangements to hold his summer quarters at Liao Yang during the rainy season, when the country will be impassable and that he is elaborating his preparations to combat cholera and enteric fever, which may then be troublesome.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris says that the capture of Kin Chow and the march of the Japanese on Port Arthur has increased the misunderstanding between Viceroy Alexieff and Gen. Kuropatkin. The former, who has never seen active service, desires Gen. Kuropatkin to march his army to the relief of Port Arthur. Kuropatkin insists that he should wait reinforcements. In consequence, there was a violent discussion between them when they met the other day at Mukden.

Each sent a detailed report to the Czar. Alexieff insisted on the necessity of saving Port Arthur, so as to keep a base for the fleet and obviate the fatal blow its capture would inflict on Russian prestige. He pointed out that after the way in which the Japanese had taken Kin Chow there was no guarantee that they would not sacrifice an enormous number of men to take Port Arthur; so the Russians should go to its relief. On the other hand, Gen. Kuropatkin argued that the Russian forces at Liao Yang are not strong enough for a forward movement. Having Gen. Kuropatkin and the Japanese army that had landed at Takushan on his left flank, he thought it wise to stay at Liao Yang until he had 400,000 men at his disposal, and leave Port Arthur to defend itself. Moreover, its capture by the Japanese would be of no strategic importance.

Both Alexieff and Kuropatkin asked the Czar to settle the dispute. The Czar accordingly summoned a council of war. There were present Gen. Sakharoff, Admiral Avelan and M. von Plehve, Ministers respectively of War, Marine and the Interior. It is understood that, in view of the naval necessity of keeping Port Arthur as a base, all the more essential because the Baltic Sea fleet would be unable to go to the Far East if Port Arthur disappeared, Kuropatkin was advised to try to relieve the fortress, provided he acted with the utmost caution.

FAREWELL BALL

The skating rink was the scene of a most successful ball last night given in honor of the Misses Bulcher by the young people of Edmonton. The rink was prettily decorated, the floor in splendid shape, and the music excellent. The orchestra occupied seats in the middle of the floor. At one end of the rink small tables were arranged and dainty refreshments served at the conclusion of the ball. Those present voiced their appreciation of the honored guests by 5000 times hearty cheers which were responded to by Major Esler on behalf of himself and family. He stated his regrets at leaving Edmonton and referred to their pleasant sojourn here. The large gathering then joined hands and sang Auld Lang Syne. Altogether the ball was one of the most successful given in Edmonton.

LEG BROKEN BY A RUN-AWAY

A runaway accident occurred on Jasper avenue yesterday as a result of which J. Villeneuve, of Lamoureux, now lies in the General Hospital suffering from a badly broken leg.

It appears that Villeneuve was sitting in his wagon in front of the Massey-Harris Company's warehouse when a team belonging to S. McDonald, of St. Albert, and attached to a democrat, ran away from some point down town, heading west along Jasper avenue. They struck Villeneuve's wagon with tremendous force, the impact knocking him from his seat to the ground. His own team, alarmed by the disturbance, started, and the heavy wheel passed over Villeneuve's right ankle, breaking it very badly. The sufferer was removed quickly to Laurendeau's liquor store, where Dr. Blais made him as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. A delivery wagon was hailed and the injured man conveyed to the General Hospital for treatment.

THE MAN FROM EDMONTON

The Toronto Star contains the following complimentary notice of an Edmonton man, accompanied by an excellent half-tone:—

"McMaster University is to have a representative in the first party of Canadian students going to Oxford on Rhodes scholarships. Mr. Ralph V. Bellamy, B. A., who graduated from the Bloor street university in 1902, is the fortunate young man. He has been the successful candidate from the Northwest Territories.

"Mr. Bellamy fulfills every idea of the founder of the scholarships. As a student he was considered by the faculty of McMaster as one of the strongest and cleverest that ever passed through the college halls. He was a specialist in moderns and English and stood so high in his examinations throughout that on the conclusion of his course he was offered a fellowship in moderns which he refused for business reasons.

"In the social life of the university he took a prominent part. He was editor in his final year of the leading department of the McMaster University monthly. In the literary and debating societies he took a prominent part, holding important offices in each. A noteworthy feat was performed by him in his last year, when he won first prize in the oratorical contest, a task particularly difficult in a school which pays so much attention to the training of public speakers and which has won so many college victories.

"Mr. Bellamy is an all round athlete. Standing six feet in height, he is proportionately built. Few students have a better physique. He was full back on the McMaster Association football team and was one of the best cover points ever seen in college hockey circles.

"He was very popular with both faculty and students. Chancellor Wallace, when seen this morning expressed himself as delighted with the appointment and said that McMaster could have no worthier representative at the great English university. Mr. Bellamy, who is in his twenty-third year, has from Edmonton, Alberta, where his father is a large dealer in agricultural implements."

POULTRY AND PET STOCK ASSOCIATION

A business meeting of the Alberta Poultry and Pet Stock Association was held at Strathcona last evening. Mr. A. C. Rutherford, the president, presided over the chair. Mr. T. D. Connor, the secretary, submitted a report of the past year's proceedings, including the financial statement. The report referred to the exhibition held last January in Strathcona, and which was the first held by this Association and which proved to have been a most creditable one, especially in the number of entries and the high scoring of the majority of the fowls and dogs.

The election of officers took place and resulted as follows:—

President, A. C. Rutherford, Strathcona, re-elected.

Vice-President, R. J. Manson, Edmonton.

Secretary, Treasurer, W. A. Fife, Edmonton.

Directors: T. Richards, J. D. Hutton, Strathcona; Jas. A. Stovel, Wm. Irwin, John T. Mill, Edmonton.
